The Talking Schoolhouse™ Series

represents the most advanced technology in the areas of human speech and super high-resolution graphics for educational software. Disks speak on their own . . . No speech board or any additional hardware is required — only a 3.5" disk drive.

Developers working with proven educational concepts have recorded actual human voice and electronically digitized the sound into the computer program. The result is perfect, natural-sounding speech — not a synthesized computer voice that only confuses youngsters.

Covering ten basic subject areas, Talking Schoolhouse brings the personal and reassuring voice of a real person into the computer learning environment.
